Work for the Unemployed. There are at this present moment, in and about Victoria, between two and three hundred man, who have come down here from the mines to spend the winter, and to find employment. The major portion of these men, we have been told, are possessed of very limited means, some of shem entirely destitute, and greatly in need of assistance in some way or other. Here, then, is offered a good opportunity for our local authorities, Dominional, Pro vincial, and Municipal, to display their energies in providing for these people something to do during the ensuing winter months. In the course of another three or four we ke there will be an necession to the present list of able-bodied men amongst us looking for employment of, say, one hundred and fifty, and the anthorities should seriously ask themselves the question, how can we utilize all this idle bone and muscle, for their advantage as well as for the benefit of the country at large? After all that has been said and written or the subject of immigration, what will be thought of British Columbia abroad-in England, Canada, and the States-if it become known that instead of being prepared to receive and provide for any number of immigrants, should they be land d on our shores, that the population we now have are under the necessity of emigrating to Oregon or California in search of employment there being nothing in the Protatives of the Dominion Government in energy for which they are so noted in the sister Provinces in matters relating to the execution of public works, for which appropriations have been made, they will have the means at command to create employment for quite a number of those men who are now in our midet waiting for something to tura up, whereby they will be enabled to obtain the means of subsistence during the winter and probably make a small stake to take them back to the mines in the spring. No better time could be chosen than the present for the commencement of those public works contemplated by the Doformed, can be had at a lower rate of wages during the winter season, then if it be left until spring, when most of these mea will in all probability leave again for the mines, unless circumstances should compel them in the meantime to Lace & Damask Curtains. leave the country, when the chance would be very much against their ever returning to it again. And have the Provincial Government nothing in hand, no works unperformed for which Parliament has voted supplies, that they could give out just now with a view of giving employment to those who are in our midst having nothing to do? Are the e no roads, trails, bridges, or other works that might be entered upon just no , with mutual advantage to the country and to blose who would gladly accept of such employment as the Government could give them? We trust the local Govern ment will feel that a certain amount of responsibility rests upon them in con-nection with this matter. If employment cannot be found for the very limited population at present in the country. of what use is it to talk about im migration schemes, or hold out visionary inducements for people come to this country to settle therein? Where is the use of having an Immigra tion Agent at Sin Francisco and another in London, if, after having induced people to come to British Columbia, they can get nothing whatever to do? The fact is, between the Dominion and the Provincial Governments there should be not an idle man in the country, if all felt disposed to work. This, however, may be said by way of apology for the Pro-vincial Government: Owing to the vast number of officials of one kind and another to be provided for out of the public exchanger, there is so small a surplus left when their stipends are deducted from the gross receip's that very little indeed is left for public works of any description; and, consequently, however willing they might be to extend a help-ing hand to those in need of assistance or to take advantage of the presence of a work done at an economical rate, they do not possess the means necessary to anable them to do so. Here, then, is one good and sufficient reason why the Legis-

the Government a larger sum of money to be annually spent in the execution of public works, and in opening up and developing the latent resources of the country.
